

EVOKED POTENTIALS

Grostick J, Glick D, Burke E, Sheres B. Chiropractic Adjustment Reversal of Neurological Insult. Proceedings of the International Conference on Spinal Manipulation, May 1992.

Vaillancourt PJ, Collins KF. Case Report: Management of Post-Surgical Low Back Syndrome with Upper Cervical Adjustment. Chiropr Res J, 1993; 2(3):1-16.

Glick D, Lee F, Grostick J. Documenting the Efficacy of Chiropractic Care Utilizing Somatosensory Evoked Potential (SEP) Testing: Post Spinal Adjustment Changes in SEP's Duplicating Those Observed. Proceedings of the International Conference on Spinal Manipulation, 1993.

Collins KF, Pflieger B. The Neurophysiological Evaluation of the Subluxation Complex: Documenting the Neurological Component with Somatosensory Evoked Potentials. Chiropr Res J, 1994; 3(1):40-8.

Collins KF, Pflieger B. Significance of Functional Leg Length Inequality Upon Somatosensory Evoked Potential Findings. 11th Annual Upper Cervical Spine Conference, Life College, Marietta, GA, November 19-20, 1994.

Glick DM. The Effective Utilization of Somatosensory Evoked Potentials in the Evaluation and Management of Upper Cervical Subluxations: Two Case Examples. 11th Annual Upper Cervical Spine Conference, Life College, Marietta, GA, November 19-20, 1994.

Glick DM. Utilizing Stochastic Resonance to Identify Electrical Potentials that may be Generated During the Course of an Upper Cervical Adjustment. 12th Annual Upper Cervical Conference, Life College, Marietta, GA, November 18-19, 1995.

Collins, KF. Utilization of Somato-Sensory Evoked Potentials in Subluxation Based Chiropractic Research. 6th Annual National Subluxation Conference, Sherman College of Straight Chiropractic, Atlantic City, NJ, October 10-11, 1998.